Year 10 students enjoy Shakespeare

The Scottish Play
Last week twenty one Year 10 students studying Shakespeare’s Macbeth and the concept of power had the amazing experience of sitting in the front two rows of Melbourne’s Arts Centre Playhouse Theatre, talking at length with the Bell Shakespeare cast of actors and watching their incredible rendition of Macbeth at such close quarters.

The modern interpretation, using current technology (iPads and iPhones), contemporary dress, current music and vivid lighting kept the students enthralled for the entire performance. The group travelled to Melbourne in the school bus, explored a little of South Yarra, sampled a range of foods, saw a selection of films and walked along Melbourne’s Southbank in the winter sunshine.

The group was accompanied by Ms McNally, Mr Menton and Mrs Gardam.

Book Week 2014

The 2014 Book of the Year is Wildlife by Fiona Wood.

Three very different teenagers find out about themselves and some of the big questions of life during their school’s outdoor education term.

Life, death and sex are the hefty themes of this book and they are handled brilliantly with honest and authentic teenage voices, as the characters reveal not quite all through writing in their daily journals.

The setting in the wilderness campus of a school is a wonderful platform to showcase the difficulties and issues arising from living so closely together along with relationship dynamics. There is a clever use of intertextuality using Othello parallels to highlight betrayal masked as friendship as well as the isolation of the physical environment.

Honour Books 2014 are

- The Sky so Heavy by Claire Zorn
- Fairytales for Wilde Girls by Allysse Near and are available for loan from your school library.
